Stephen brings deep mining industry experience and capital market insight at both an executive and director level. His knowledge of the UK capital markets will be invaluable as we progress the Ampasindava rare earth project."

I would also like to acknowledge enormous effort and contribution of Joe Belladonna whose leadership and determination has been instrumental in steering the company through to its successful LSE listing. Joe will continue to play a key role in our growth strategy by focusing on business development and advancing discussions around government and non-government funding – particularly aligned with growing US based rare earth processing capability and initiatives."
